QSSI Part of Winning Team Awarded the HHS Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services ORDI Research Data Distribution Information Technology Services IDIQ Contract

Columbia, MD — Maryland-based QSSI announced that it is part of the team awarded a five-year contract from the Office of Research, Development, and Information (ORDI), Research Data Distribution Information Technology (IT) Services (RDIS) by the Department of Health & Human Services (HHS), Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS). ORDI provides leadership in producing information and analysis to help shape current and future directions of CMS programs and related policy decisions. QSSI will support CORMAC Corporation with this effort.

Under this Indefinite Delivery/Indefinite Quantity (IDIQ) contract, QSSI and CORMAC will assist CMS in providing IT services to develop secure and integrated internet-based software and database systems to support research, demonstration, and information activities. The scope of work encompass a variety of IT developmental and project management activities associated with web site development, database development, business intelligence development, data dissemination, and analytics to support ORDI's current and future portfolio of research projects.

About CORMAC

CORMAC Corporation, an IBM business partner, is an IT consulting firm specializing in data management, application development, and systems support services. Since 2002, CORMAC has provided customers with highly specialized application and database management support. They work closely with clients in government agencies, commercial businesses, and Fortune 500 companies to achieve their business goals.
